Short-term Study in the United States for Secondary School Educators

The U. S. Government is offering three Australian secondary school educators an opportunity to attend one of three fully funded five-week seminars on areas of study of the United States, commencing in June 2015.

The seminars are intended to promote a better understanding of the United States among foreign educators and government education officials whose professional responsibilities center on the teaching of humanities and social sciences in secondary schools.

The ideal candidate will be an experienced professional with little or no prior experience in the United States whose home institution is seeking to introduce aspects of U.S. Studies into its curriculum, to develop new courses on the seminar subject, to enhance and update existing courses on the United States, or to offer specialized seminars/workshops for education professionals in U.S. Studies.

Three Institutes for Secondary Educators will be offered, two with a focus on classroom teachers and the third with a focus on administrators, teacher trainers, curriculum developers, textbook writers, and Ministry of Education officials, among others. Each Institute includes a four-week academic residency component and a one-week integrated study tour. The U.S. Department of State will pay all costs associated with the program, including international travel and allowances.

Those interested in applying for the seminars should contact the Public Affairs Section of the U.S. Embassy at cultural-exchange@state.gov to request an application form.

Program dates will be announced in mid-February but are expected to be from early June to August 2015.

Applications must be submitted to the Public Affairs Section of the U.S. Embassy at cultural-exchange@state.gov no later than Wednesday, January 7, 2015.

The Institute for Secondary School Educators

The Institute will provide a multinational group of 20 experienced secondary school teachers with a deeper understanding of U.S. society, education, and culture – past and present. The focus of the Institute will be to provide content and materials for participants to develop high school level curricula about the United States. Please note that the main focus of the Institutes for Secondary School Educators is on content and materials about the United States rather than teaching methods and pedagogy. To this end, the Institutes are organized around a central theme or themes in U.S. civilization. Through a combination of traditional, multi-disciplinary, and interdisciplinary approaches, program content will examine the history and evolution of U.S. institutions and values, broadly defined. The program will also serve to illuminate contemporary political, social, and economic debates in American society. The four week academic residency will be complemented by a one week study tour. The aim of the study tour is to showcase the cultural, geographic, and ethnic diversity of the United States. The University of Montana and the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign will each host one Institute for teachers.
