

My dream is to create an NGO for high school graduates.

I'm very optimistic about my future and I think that I can see my dreams come true through hard work. That's the way that I think about my future and my life. My major objective in this life which stimulates me to work as hard as possible in order to achieve that objective is to create a Non-governmental organization to help young high school graduates to get higher education. Unfortunately, in my country governmental scholarships are awarded to students who get a high score at the entrance examinations which's not always fair. For example, students who pass the exams with flying colors and get full governmental scholarships aren't always unable to afford their education. I mean some students who get a chance to complete their education without paying any tuition fees are rich enough to be able to afford their education. However, some students who get a fair score at the exam and but have a strong desire and potential to study higher education are obliged to withdraw from the University/college, because they're unable to pay the fees. I've experienced it in my life for a lot of times and all I wanna do in the future is to create an NGO to help such students. In fact, entrance exams are standardized tests which don't measure critical thinking of students or their desire to get higher education. Therefore, there're a plenty of students with a lot of passion about education who don't get a chance to study at the University/college and contribute to the society with their professional experience, talent and diligence. That's the reason why I'd like to create an NGO to help such students. I'd like to provide such students with scholarships through the fund of NGO who are passionate about learning so that they can complete their education without being obliged to liquefy their property. I know that it's easier said than done to create such an organization. However, I believe that I can do it in the future.
