

My dream is...

All people in the world dream something for themselves. I also dream a lot. Everybody tries to reach the success. Some people achieve it, but some fail to reach it. I currently study at school and make plans for my future.

I want to continue my education after school. People live with their dreams. My heart is full of the dreams. I am a simple student. I know that it is not enough just to dream. We should do our best to reach the aims.

My dream is to go to the university and get the diploma for it. I really would love to be able to work as an interpreter. I like this profession of working as an interpreter. I can have the chance to get to know new people in this work. They can let me know their friends, too. In this way, I can know have a lot of friends, who can help me for my projects. This work is very good, because I have the chance to learn the new languages and they are for my sake. When I learn the new languages, the new world opens its doors for me and an entire new future way waits for me. School lets us make our choices to have a better future. Now my aim is to finish the school and have my exams for the university. After the university I can have the knowledge and chance to be an interpreter.

The point is that I also want to support my family morally and financially. I wish and want all the best for my parents, because they did their best to support my education and all, though it was and is very difficult nowadays to pay for the education.

My dreams go beyond the university. Meanwhile I would really love to travel a lot and get the chance to know their life style and culture. I also wish all the best for my motherland Azerbaijan. Motherland is sacred for me. It's as important as my parents. That's why we should love and keep safe our motherland.

I wish blessed lives to all, who live in our country. I do not want to have it only like an idea. We must do our best to do them. We need to learn more to make our dreams true and real. We need to move on without non-stop.

I wish all to reach their dreams and be always happy. Then we shall feel more useful in this world.
