

CONSULATE OF THE UNITED STATES
Calgary, Canada

The U.S. Consulate General in Calgary and the Arctic Institute of North America present

The Future of Arctic Research: A Long-term Framework for International Cooperation and Coordination

Participate in a live interactive webchat on global cooperation on the impact of climate change on our oceans. Ask Commander Blake McBride, US Navy, Associate Director, Meteorology/Oceanography and Arctic Technologies, about research and simulation exercises the US Navy has been conducting on climate change, the related disappearance of sea ice and the implications for marine safety and security. The webchat will be moderated by Michelle Cook, US Consulate General Calgary, and Magdalena Muir, Arctic Institute of North America, University of Calgary.

Monday, April 29, 2013

12:00 EDT (16:00 UTC)

To find out what time this is where you live, click the link below:

<http://www.timeanddate.com/worldclock/converter.html>

To participate, go to the live webchat URL:

<https://conx.adobeconnect.com/canada>

Hosted by the U.S. Department of State, CO.NX brings you live webchats and webcasts with experts on a variety of topics. Our goal is to connect with people around the world in order to gain mutual understanding on a range of important topics. Join us to offer your views on the challenges that face our world.