

U.S. Embassy Brazzaville, Republic of the Congo
Emergency Message #5 for U.S. Citizens
Explosions in Brazzaville

March 14, 2012

This is the fifth update: The U.S. Embassy in Brazzaville reminds all Congo-based U.S. citizens to keep personal safety in the forefront of your planning. On Sunday, March 4, a series of explosions at a munitions depot at Regiment Blinde, a military barracks located in Mpila neighborhood, killed over 200 people and collapsed homes and buildings. The explosions led to the distribution of a heavy concentration of unexploded munitions within an area of one kilometer from the blasts' epicenter, with some additional munitions traveling possibly as far as a few kilometers.

Currently, there are approximately 15,000 displaced people living in eight temporary sites throughout Brazzaville who are in need of supplies and sanitary improvements. The Government of the ROC (GROC) is under increasing pressure to compensate those affected by the blast. There have been local newspaper reports of widespread dissatisfaction with the GROC's response thus far.

The damage from the explosions and large numbers of people left homeless may impact the security situation in Brazzaville. Although the security situation in Brazzaville currently remains unchanged, it has the potential to deteriorate in the coming weeks and should be monitored closely. The U.S. Embassy reminds all U.S. citizens to remain vigilant and to use caution when traveling throughout the city. Avoid the Mpila neighborhood and stay away from objects that resemble unexploded munitions. Travel by vehicle in Brazzaville, avoid walking, if possible, and avoid areas around the sites where displaced people are gathering.
