

U.S. Embassy in Cairo Study of the United States Institutes for Student Leaders

Description:

The 2015 Study of the United States Institutes for Student Leaders Programs are intensive academic programs whose purpose is to provide groups of Egyptian undergraduate student leaders with a deeper understanding of the United States, while simultaneously enhancing their leadership skills. The Institutes will take place in June and July 2015. The five-week Institutes will consist of a balanced series of seminar discussions, readings, group presentations, and lectures. The coursework and classroom activities will be complemented by educational travel, site visits, leadership activities, and volunteer opportunities within the local community. The Institutes will include an academic residency component of approximately four weeks and a domestic study tour of approximately one week. During the academic residency, participants will also have the opportunity to engage in educational and cultural activities outside of the classroom. Successful applicants will be provided with international/ domestic airfare, housing, a living stipend, tuition, books/ incidental allowances, and health insurance coverage.

Program (1) The Institute on Civic Engagement

The four week academic residency will provide participants with an overview of how citizens have shaped U.S. history, government, and society both as individuals and groups. The program will define civic engagement, examine its development in the U.S., and explore topics such as citizenship, community building, economic development, grassroots activism, political leadership, and volunteerism. Other topics such as civil rights, entrepreneurship, ethics, leadership, and media will be discussed. Students will also have the opportunity to leave the classroom to meet with community leaders, entrepreneurs, and representatives of non-profit organizations. The academic residency will be complemented by an educational tour that will take participants to another area of the U.S. where they will meet with local, state, private, and nonprofit organizations working in the field. The Institute will conclude in Washington, D.C. Exact program dates will be announced at a later time.

Program (2) The Institute on Women's Leadership

The program will begin with an opening conference in Washington, D.C. to bring together female student leaders from 3 other Institutes on Women's Leadership. The women will have opportunities to network with one another and meet with inspiring U.S. women leaders representing various professional fields. The Institute will examine the history and participation of women in public life in the United States. The Institute will focus on two major areas: developing participants' leadership skills and an enhanced sense of self-efficacy and aspiration by focusing on areas such as critical thinking, communication, decision-making, and managerial abilities; and, placing these abilities in the context of the history and participation of women in U.S. politics, economics, culture, and society. The Institute will examine the fields of women's study, U.S. Women's history, women's economic empowerment, global women's movements to address challenges, U.S. public institutions such as health, legal and education systems, women's leadership, and intercultural skill development.

Program (3) The Institute on Religious Pluralism in the U.S.

The four week academic residency will focus on U.S. history, society, and institutions within the context of religious pluralism and interfaith dialogue. Participants will discuss topics such as early religious traditions in the U.S.; the separation of church and state; immigration and the introduction of new religions in the U.S.; protection and representation of minority groups and religions; and interfaith dialogue and cooperation. Participants will meet with community leaders of different faiths that advocate for collaboration and tolerance among religious groups. The academic residency will be complemented by an educational tour that will take participants to another area of the U.S. where they will meet with local leaders of different faiths, leaders of nonprofit organizations, and visit important religious sites. The Institute will then conclude with a 3 day program in Washington, D.C.

Program (4) The Institute on Social Entrepreneurship

The four week academic residency will focus on will focus on the development, history, challenges, and successes of social enterprises and community leaders, in the United States and globally. Participants will discuss topics such as microfinance; organizational development and management; grant writing; innovation; emerging markets and risk analysis; strategic business planning; corporate social responsibility; and, women and minorities in entrepreneurship. Students will also have the opportunity to leave the classroom to meet with community leaders, entrepreneurs, and representatives of non-profit organizations. The academic residency will be complemented by an educational tour that will take participants to another area of the U.S. where they will meet with local, state, private, and nonprofit organizations working in the field. The Institute will then conclude with a 3 day program in Washington, D.C.
