Finnish Conclusions: Reflections on Finnish and American Civic Identity

on Tuesday, November 22, at 5 pm

Kaisa Library Auditorium (Fabianinkatu 30, 7th floor)

American Fulbright Distinguished Teacher David Tow, whose project “Finland is the World” (www.FinlandIsTheWorld.com) explored Finnish varieties of civic and national identity, has been back in the United States for 6 months. During his time in Finland, he spoke with students, teachers, and many everyday Finns about Finland’s role in the world, what Finland’s future looked like, and what it meant to be Finnish.

In this presentation, he will present some interesting threads in his conversations with Finns and compare them to the current state of American society. He will also try and link these two explorations with a larger global political trend. David will also answer any questions you may have about American culture or politics.
