

Emergency Message for U.S. Citizens – Demonstrations in Linden
U.S. Embassy Georgetown, Guyana
July 27, 2012

This message reminds U.S. citizens in Guyana to exercise caution when in public due to violent protests in Linden and ongoing protests in Georgetown in response to a rise in electricity rates. The U.S. Embassy advises U.S. citizens in Guyana to limit your movement in and around Georgetown and Linden and to avoid unnecessary travel throughout the country. Because of the continuing possibility of violence, the Embassy has prohibited U.S. government employees from official and non-official travel to Linden and on the Linden highway.

The recent protests in Linden have resulted in property damage and loss of life. Protests in Georgetown and Linden are ongoing and may spread to other locations.

The U.S. Embassy advises U.S. citizens to avoid large public gatherings. Be aware of traffic delays and increased pedestrian presence in the potential problem areas listed above. Note that this list of problem areas is not comprehensive, and you should exercise caution throughout Guyana.

Even demonstrations that are meant to be peaceful can become violent and unpredictable. You should avoid them if at all possible. Be alert and aware of your surroundings and pay attention to what the local news media has to say.
