U.S. Embassy extending invitations to Obama speech via Facebook

The U.S. Embassy in Israel is announcing a contest to be held on its official Facebook page in which it will provide up to 20 invitations to President Obama's speech. Facebook users are asked to "like" the page of the U.S. Embassy, and write – in the most original and creative way – why they should be invited to attend the speech. The winners will attend the speech together with hundreds of students and other invited guests.

In addition, the Embassy's American Center in Jerusalem is organizing a series of cultural events to celebrate the visit, including rock concerts, a children's play, a coffee talk with an American diplomat, and more. Additional information is available here:
