This Warden Message alerts U.S. citizens to the latest information regarding human cases of 2009-H1N1 influenza, sometimes referred to as novel H1N1 or swine flu. China has instituted the following procedures for border authorities to screen for the possibility of influenza among passengers on arriving international flights:

Prior to disembarking from the aircraft, passengers will be required to complete and submit a Health and Quarantine (H&Q) declaration card, which will be provided by the air carrier. H&Q officials will collect the cards on board the aircraft or plane-side.

All passengers will be required to proceed through two separate thermal-scanning checkpoints. Temperature readings are taken by hand wands or from fixed-position infrared monitors that do not make any contact with the traveler. The Shanghai Public Health Bureau has notified the U.S. Consulate General Shanghai that passengers with temperatures exceeding 38 degrees Celsius (100.4 degrees Fahrenheit) could be subject to quarantine or be sent to a hospital to test for the presence of H1N1.

If you are quarantined or placed in isolation due to 2009-H1N1 influenza, please contact the U.S. Embassy or Consulate at the number below so we can monitor your situation. However, please be aware that if you are detained or quarantined the U.S. Government is not authorized to demand your immediate release.

Due to legal restrictions and a lack of sufficient resources, the U.S. Embassy or Consulate is not in a position to provide private citizens with pandemic-related supplies, medications or medical treatment, including vaccines, and cannot provide specific medical advice. Questions and concerns about influenza or other illnesses should be directed to a medical professional. A list of local hospitals and doctors can be found on our website at http://shanghai.usembassy-china.org.cn/health_and_safety.html.

China - Security Concerns in the City of Urumqi

September 09, 2009

The State Department alerts U.S. citizens to safety and security concerns in China's Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, particularly in the city of Urumqi. U.S. citizens are advised to carefully consider travel to the Xinjiang Uyghur region at this time. This Travel Alert expires on December 10, 2009.

On September 3, 2009, thousands of Chinese took to the streets of Urumqi to demand increased security after reports of alleged needle stabbings. According to New China News Agency (Xinhua) and other news sources, five people were killed and fourteen were wounded in the protests. Following an early-July outbreak of ethnic violence, tensions have continued and a heavy security presence is in place in Urumqi, Kashgar, Hotan, and other major cities in the region.

The Embassy is closely monitoring the situation in Xinjiang. U.S. citizens in Xinjiang, and especially in Urumqi and other regional cities, are advised to avoid areas where demonstrations are taking place. Banks, shops and schools in Urumqi may close unexpectedly. Communications and transportation routes have reportedly been restricted; however, the Chinese authorities report the airport, railway, and roads remain open.

Security Situation - Travel Warnings and Alerts

Security reminder: It is prudent for you and your family to review your personal security profile and to be aware of your surroundings at all times.

Since our previous Newsletter for October 2009, the U.S. Department of State has issued new Travel Warnings for the following countries.

Algeria	11/16/2009
Colombia	11/10/2009
Guinea	10/17/2009

Travel Warnings are issued to describe long-term, protracted conditions that make a country dangerous or unstable. A Travel Warning is also issued when the U.S. Government's ability to assist American citizens is constrained due to the closure of an embassy or consulate or because of a drawdown of its staff. This information is available at http://travel.state.gov/travel/cis_pa_tw/tw/tw_1764.html.

The U.S. Department of State also has issued new Travel Alerts:

Germany	11/12/2009
Mozambique	11/10/2009
Honduras	11/06/2009
Haji	11/05/2009
India	10/29/2009
Tanzania (including Zanzibar)	10/15/2009

Travel Alerts are issued to disseminate information about short-term conditions generally within a particular country or region that pose imminent risks to the security of U.S. citizens. Natural disasters, terrorist attacks, coups, anniversaries of terrorist events, election-related demonstrations or violence, and high-profile events such as international conferences or regional sports events are examples of conditions that might generate a Travel Alert. This information is available at http://travel.state.gov/travel/cis_pa_tw/pa/pa_1766.html.

An earlier Travel Alert for China regarding H1N1 quarantine procedures is still valid, and is available at: http://travel.state.gov/travel/cis_pa_tw/pa/pa_4238.html.

Tips For A Smooth Consular Visit

Please make sure you have read our hours of operation and have taken note of Chinese and American holidays before planning your visit.

For passport applicants: Complete (but don't sign) passport applications ahead of time – this considerably shortens your visit.

For passport applicants: Pay special attention to passport photograph requirements and make sure you obtain 2" by 2" photos.

For minor (below age 16) passport applicants: Parents, please remember to bring your child's original birth certificate when applying for a new or replacement passport.

For notary clients: Please ensure you have read your document(s) to be notarized and understand the contents. Do not sign your document, but make sure that all other blanks are filled in before coming to the Consulate.

Please remember: The fewer items you bring to the Consulate (i.e. backpacks, laptops, cellphones, etc.), the more quickly the security check will be for everyone.

Who Must Register for Selective Service?

Almost all male U.S. citizens and male aliens living in the U.S. between ages 18 and 25, are required to register with the Selective Service. Registering does not mean that a man will automatically be inducted into the military. In a crisis requiring a draft, men would be called in sequence determined by a random lottery number and their year of birth. Then, they would be examined for mental, physical and moral fitness by the military before being deferred or exempted from military service or inducted into the Armed Forces. Go to the Selective Service web site for more information: <http://www.sss.gov>.

New IRS Guidelines For Expatriation

The IRS has released guidelines explaining how new rules impact those who decide to give up their citizenship or legal permanent residence after June 16, 2008.

The new expatriation rules apply if:

1. Your average annual net income tax for the 5 years ending before the date of expatriation or termination of residency is more than $139,000 (if you expatriated or terminated residency before January 1, 2009).
2. Your net worth is $2 million or more on the date of your expatriation or termination of residency.
3. You fail to certify on Form 8854 that you have complied with all U.S.

federal tax obligations for the 5 years preceding the date of your expatriation or termination of residency.

If you expatriated before June 17, 2008, the expatriation rules in effect at that time continue to apply.

News: Four Arrested After Men Robbed in Honey Trap

TWO South Asian couples have been arrested after two foreign men were seduced and robbed of nearly 100,000 yuan (US$14,646), Shanghai No. 2 Prosecutors' Office said yesterday.

Two brothers from an unnamed South Asian country, aged 26 and 27, allegedly sent their wives out to meet foreigners over drinks, give them chocolate laced with sleeping pills and then take their property, prosecutors said.

On the early morning of July 22, one wife named only as Hanni met a man from the Netherlands in a bar in Xintiandi. She asked if she could continue the conversation over a drink at his hotel in Minhang District.

On the way there in a cab, Hanni allegedly tricked him into eating a chocolate laced with a powerful sedative. After they got to his room, the victim fell unconscious. Prosecutors allege that Hanni then took cash, his laptop, cell phone and credit card.

The suspects later used the credit card to buy gold and watches in a store. The victim suffered a loss of more than 30,000 yuan, prosecutors said.

The couples also robbed a Frenchman of 28,000 yuan worth of property and a few credit cards the next day in the same way, prosecutors allege, and used the cards to buy two luxury watches valued at more than 40,000 yuan.

The suspects were caught in a Hangpu District hotel where they lived on July 24.

Prosecutors said criminal cases targeting expatriates will be severely penalized to maintain public safety as more foreigners visit before the 2010 World Expo next May.

News: Shanghai Warns Expats Perils of Drunk Driving

FOREIGNERS living in Shanghai were reminded that their residence permit may be revoked if they are caught driving under the influence of alcohol, the Shanghai Exit-Entry Administration Bureau was quoted by Shanghai Daily as saying.

A man from a Southeast Asian nation who was caught driving after drinking had his residence permit revoked, was ordered to serve 10 days' detention and was fined 500 yuan (73.21 U.S. dollars). He was also asked to leave the country after serving the detention. Police didn't give other details such as the suspect's name and nationality.

The man was stopped by police for a routine alcohol test on Aug. 15 when he was heading home from a party at 3 a.m.. A breathalyzer test indicated that the man was driving under the influence of alcohol. Police also said he was carrying a fake license. The man confessed that he had obtained a driving license in the United States when he studied there, but that he didn't want to go through the hassle of getting a Chinese one after moving to China so he purchased a counterfeit license, according to police.

"Since his behavior has caused danger to public security, the Shanghai Exit-Entry Administration Bureau decided to revoke his residence permit according to the country's immigration law," the bureau said in a written statement to the media Monday. "Any foreigner caught driving drunk will get the same punishment as a local," the statement added.

In a related development, Xinhua reported on Sept. 10 that a German man who caused a serious accident while driving drunk, had been ordered to serve for 15 days detention in Xi'an, the capital of northwest China's Shaanxi Province.

The Ministry of Public Security launched a two-month nationwide campaign against drunk-driving on Aug. 15, in the wake of a series of fatal accidents which have sparked public anger against drunk drivers. Chinese police have caught 25,765 people driving under the influence of alcohol during the campaign. The ministry says drunk drivers will be suspended from driving for three or six months and, in serious cases, detained for 15 days. If a drunk driver is caught twice within a year, his or her license will be revoked for two to five years.

Someone Asked the Consul:

How do I travel before my new passport arrives?

It takes about two weeks to receive your new passport after you submit your application. Many people wonder how they can travel during those two weeks. Guess what — even though we need to see your current passport when you apply for a new one, we do not hold onto it while your new passport is being processed. Your current passport remains valid until you pick up your new passport. Even after we cancel your old passport, the unexpired Chinese visas inside it remain valid; most people carry their old passport with their new one until they obtain replacement visas in their new passport.

If you lose your U.S. passport, you first need to report to the Chinese Entry and Exit Bureau. Once you have obtained the original lost/stolen passport report from the Entry and Exit Bureau, you may come to the Consulate to apply for a new passport. And while you are waiting for the arrival of your new passport, you may use the report from the Entry and Exit Bureau to travel WITHIN China and check into hotels.

Electronic Applications Now Required

Starting February 15, 2010, the Shanghai ACS Section will require the use of electronic application forms for all passport services, including passport renewals and adding visa pages (Forms DS-11, DS-82, DS-5504 and DS-4085). After filling out your application online, print your application and bring it to your appointment.

You can access the required forms at the ACS website <http://shanghai.usembassy->

china.org.cn/passport_forms.htm
l or http://travel.state.gov/passpor t/forms/forms_847.html.

Failure to complete these applications online will delay the processing of your application.

Note: For applicants without social security numbers, enter 000-00-0000 for the SSN on the online form.

If your passport is lost or stolen, you can print out a Statement Regarding Lost or Stolen Passport (DS-64). And if you are applying for a minor's passport and both parents cannot sign the application together, you can print out a Statement of Consent (DS-3053). These special forms do not need to be filled out online.
