UNGRADED WRITING AS A TOOL TO PROMOTE LEARNING

Oksana Yarmolenko (Kyiv, Ukraine)

Few foreign language teachers would deny the fact that writing is an integral part of language learning. A much more valuable source of feedback on how much students learnt than conventional tests. Writing is a complex of skills that requires continuous practice. It involves application of discipline-specific knowledge and skills, critical thinking skills. It shows the ability to use the language to accomplish communication goals. Thus, helping students to improve their writing is the responsibility of every teacher.
