The Ambassador's Special Self-Help Program

Guidelines

The Ambassador's Special Self-Help (SSH) Program in Zimbabwe provides grants to assist small-scale community-driven development projects. The objective of the fund is to encourage self-reliance within local communities, and to demonstrate the U.S. government's interest in the welfare and social development of Zimbabwe. Funding priority will be given to projects that include a significant community contribution and/or involvement and lead to ongoing, self-sustaining activities.

Preference is given to projects focusing on:

- Income generation
- Education and vocational training
- Access to water and improved natural resource management
- Health, nutrition, and social services to assist vulnerable or at-risk populations (such as women, children, and persons living with HIV/AIDS)

Are you interested in applying? Here are a few things you should know:

- Individuals, businesses, and government entities do not qualify. Applicants must be non-governmental, non-profit or community-based organizations registered for at least one year.
- The organization must be entirely Zimbabwean and its members nationals of the host country.
- Self-Help funding cannot pay for operating costs, salaries, training, vehicles, or computers.
- Construction projects and repair of existing facilities are currently not allowed.
- The grants typically range from $5,000 to $25,000.
- Grantees must complete their projects within 12 months of signing the grant agreement.
- We accept applications year-round. However, we receive hundreds of applications and can only fund a select few each year.
- Applicants must provide a plan describing how they will accomplish the project. Successful applicants are required to report on the progress of their work (mid-year and final reports) and submit receipts for grant-funded purchases.
- Projects must benefit the greatest number of people possible, be well planned and operated and maintained by an all-local organization. They must also be results-oriented.
- Recipient organizations must demonstrate their commitment by either contributing to the project financially, or providing labor or supplies to carry out the project.
- We cannot fund the same project two years in a row. New organizations are encouraged to apply.

Funding Sources ***

Select the fund below that best fits the focus of your proposed activity. Please remember to enter the name of the funding source when filling out the grant application form.

1. Ambassador's Special Self-Help (SSH) Fund

The Ambassador's SSH program funds community-initiated projects that support education, access to healthy food, income-generating activities, and water/sanitation initiatives, as well as other activities that improve living conditions, provide education, or increase income.

- Examples of previous projects: Grinding mills, carpentry, weaving, boreholes, irrigation, water storage, fencing, market gardens.

- Unacceptable projects: Cash sponsorship, single family enterprises, school fees, operating costs, office equipment, construction, cultural programs, vehicles.

2. United States African Development Foundation Fund (USADF)

The USADF only funds income generating projects.

- Examples of previous projects: sewing projects, nutritional gardens, grinding mills, artisan activities, baking equipment to help communities sell food to eco-lodges.
- Unacceptable projects: Cash sponsorship, single family enterprises, school fees, operating costs, office equipment, construction, cultural programs, purchase of livestock, vehicles.

3. President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) Small Grants Program

The PEPFAR Small Grants Program funds activities that enable community- and faith-based organizations, as well as organized groups of people living with HIV/AIDS (PLWHA), to implement small-scale projects that provide care and support for communities impacted by HIV/AIDS by providing access to clean water and nutritional food and promoting income generating activities.

- Examples of previous projects: Agricultural training, nutritional gardens, grinding mills, artisan activities, sewing project for PLWHA, distribution system for nutritional supplements, HIV/AIDS prevention information campaign.
- Unacceptable projects: Cash sponsorship, single family enterprises, operating costs, office equipment, cultural programs, vehicles, direct cost of treatment.

4. Democracy and Human Rights Fund (DHRF)

The DHRF finances small, high impact activities that build democratic institutions, encourage political pluralism, and protect human rights. DHRF supports, among other areas, civic education, respect for human rights, legal and constitutional frameworks, civil and political rights awareness, and women and children's rights. Project should have a clear connection to promoting democracy and human rights.

- Examples of previous projects: Counseling for victims of violence, documentation of human rights issues, civic engagement, and transparency activities.
- Unacceptable projects: Cash sponsorship, single family enterprises, operating costs, office equipment, construction, cultural programs, vehicles, research that does not promote civic and/or political rights, refugee assistance.

5. Bureau of Population, Refugees and Migration (PRM) Julia Taft Refugee Fund

The Taft Refugee Fund is intended to meet low-cost gaps in refugee protection and assistance, primarily to support projects that assist refugees or refugee returnees. This fund has very limited funding opportunities.

- Examples of previous projects: Youth sports program or water system in refugee camp, income generation for refugee returnees, vocational education program.
- Unacceptable projects: Cash sponsorship, single family enterprises, operating costs, office equipment, construction, cultural programs, vehicles, emergency response, responding to natural or man-made disasters.

6. Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights, and Labor Lesbian, Gay, Transsexual, and Transgender (LGBT) Small Grants

The LGBT Small Grants Fund is intended to support local civil society organizations working to advance the human rights of LGBT persons in Zimbabwe and combat discrimination, violence, and unlawful imprisonment. Applications should include need-based ideas that address new opportunities, react to immediate situations, and highlight specific needs.

- Examples of previous projects: Training to provide paralegal and mediation services to LGBT community, supporting a media taskforce to facilitate informed reporting on LGBT issues, effective documentation of human rights violation for LGBT persons, engaging with religious/ traditional leaders in promoting tolerance and acceptance.
- Unacceptable projects: Cash sponsorship, single family enterprises, operating costs, office equipment, construction, cultural programs, vehicles, stand-alone conferences or onetime events, PRIDE parades/events, art and culture projects, activities on marriage equality.

* Amounts of the grants vary widely. The capacity of the group to manage the project, the type of project being proposed, and the number of people to benefit will be considered when determining if a project can be funded. Ideally, projects must generate income and/or employment, or be self-sustaining when completed.

Selection Process

The Self-Help office reviews all applications and will notify each applicant about the status of his/her proposal and if the application does not meet the eligibility guidelines. All projects eligible for funding are reviewed by the Self-Help Evaluation Committee, with final approval by the Ambassador.

Applications may be submitted any time during the year. Each grant has 12 months to be completed.

If the proposal is approved, the organization and the U.S. government sign a contract of agreement. Grantees are responsible for submitting receipts of purchased items (with each disbursement request), a mid-year progress report, and a final report to the Self-Help office.

How to Apply

All applicants must be registered not-for-profit groups, associations, non-governmental organizations, or community-based organizations. The groups must be well established, operating for at least one year, and have a history of accomplishments. The fund does not accept requests from individuals, private business enterprises, or government departments or entities. To apply, please:

1. Complete the application form below (typed responses preferred; hand written acceptable)
  - a. Include a proposed budget and timeline
2. Include a photo copy of the organization's registration certificate
3. Letter of approval for proposed project from the local development committee, tribal authority, or local town and/or district council
4. Attach original pro-forma invoices from the intended suppliers (we cannot accept photocopies)
5. Make a copy of the application for your records
6. Email application, budget, and supporting quotations to SelfHelp_Harare@state.gov
  - a. Or, if you don't have email access, please mail your application to:
U.S. Embassy, Attn: Self-Help Coordinator, P.O. Box 3340, Harare, Zimbabwe

Final Checklist before Submission

Please ensure the following documents are included with your application. Without these items, we cannot consider the proposal for funding.

- _____ Copy of the organization's registration certificate. All applicants must be registered not-for-profit groups, associations, or community organizations and have been operating for at least one year.
- _____ Letter indicating approval of the proposed project from the local development committee, tribal authority, or local town/ district council.
- _____ Original pro-forma invoices (quotes) from vendors must be attached.

The Self-Help office receives many more applications each year than it can fund. Careful and complete preparation of the application will give your group or institution the best chance to qualify for funding.

Good luck and thank you for interest in the Self-Help Program!
