Myths and Facts About the U.S. Market
Myths About the U.S. Market

Myth: Patent infractions in the U.S. make it difficult for firms to profit from their intellectual property

Facts:

- Protections for patents and trade secrets in the U.S. are among the strongest in the world.
- 34% of global R&D spending is done in the U.S. because of strong intellectual property rights protections.
- U.S. court system treats foreign and domestic firms that hold U.S. patents equally.
- In 2010, over half of patents in the U.S. were issued to foreign firms.
Myth: It is both difficult and time-consuming for international investors to get the visas they need to administer an investment in the United States.

Facts:
- In Fiscal Year 2010, the Department of State issued over 6.4 million tourist and business visas
- Visa interview wait time is less than 30 days in 90% of U.S. embassies and consulates abroad
- 97% of qualified applicants receive visas within two or three days
- 36 Countries are a part of the visa waiver program
Myth: Product liability cases create an unfriendly U.S. business environment

Facts:
- Campbell v. State Farm (2003) the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that punitive damages exceeding ten times actual damages are, except in rare cases, unconstitutional
- Tort reform initiatives are proceeding in several U.S. states
- 86% of U.S. companies rated their state court systems from fair to excellent
Myth: The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) is unfair to foreign firms

Facts:
- FCPA applies equally to U.S. and foreign firms and individuals.
- Companies that continue to act corruptly may sacrifice access to the world-leading U.S. economy.
- The FCPA legislation has furthered the goals of the OECD Anti-Bribery Convention.
Myth: All foreign investment in the United States is subject to undue scrutiny.

Facts:
• CFIUS has the authority under a voluntary review mechanism to review individual FDI transactions to determine their effects, if any, on national security.
• The overwhelming majority of FDI in the United States does not result in a CFIUS review.
• Where CFIUS reviews have been conducted, risk mitigation assurances are requested for only a few transactions per year.
Myth: U.S. laws and business culture make it difficult to do business

Facts:
- According to the World Bank’s “Ease of Doing Business Index,” the U.S. ranks as one of the world’s best economies for doing business and ranks #5 overall.
- The United States has clear rules governing business, which make for a predictable market.
- Foreign firms receive the full benefit of this transparency, as foreign and domestic firms are treated equally.
